

Marc Tierney - Labour

Marc Tierney grew up in Carmarthenshire and is proud to be standing for his home constituency of Carmarthen West and South Pembrokeshire.

He lived for a time in Ireland before studying at University in Bristol returning home to West Wales to take up a management role at Radio Pembrokeshire in Narberth.

Since then, Marc has experience of working in the public and third sectors as well as running his own business. He has established a community media project, Cleddau Radio in Pembroke Doc, run a local organisation in West Carmarthenshire and South Pembrokeshire providing respite care to children from the Chernobyl nuclear zone and sits as a Trustee on the Board of the Pembrokeshire Association of Voluntary Services.

36-year-old local Marc lives with his partner Sarah and three children in the heart of the constituency, a great place to raise his family. As his children all attend local schools, he understands the importance of investment in education and skills.

Marc is an active campaigner for local health services, the environment, tackling poverty and creating better job opportunities in West Wales. He has already used his experience and skills to secure local public services, engage with the community to improve access to health services and has spoken up fearlessly on the issues that matter to local people.
